"OLLIE" CHAMPION

AT RICHLAND FAIR

Wins Senior and Grand Championship Over All Breeds—Ship Home Friday.

But two blue ribbons were lost by the Rock county show herd stock during the judging of the dairy cattle at the Richland county fair, Richland Center, Wednesday. There were around 400 head of cattle shown, mainly by local exhibitors. Instead of having breed championships the Richland fair has sweepstakes, the blue ribbon winners of one breed pitted against the other first prize animals.

Hyland, the champion Holstein, gained revenge for the trimming the Guernsey bull, May King's Duke of Waukesha, gave him at Evansville. The Holstein was selected by the Roundel brothers, who judged, as the sweepstakes grand champion bull.

In the dual-purpose division Rock county Milking Shorthorns took all the honors.

Shorthorn Classes.

The positions of the three top bulls, owned by W. J. Hadden and son, Janesville, Hadden and son and Rye Brothers have been changed in the championship awards all three different ways and none of the Rock county animals have been defeated this year. At Fond du Lac the age bull of Lamb and son was senior champion. At Richland Center, the senior yearling of Rye Brothers, Abraham Batchelder, was junior and grand champion bull, and Telur's Fame, owned by Hadden, was senior champion. This entry was grand champion at the state fair, indicating the difference of opinion of various judges.

A yearling who heifer from Rye Brothers was junior and grand champion female. The age cow from the Lamb herd, Vera's Jewel, was senior champion.

The Jersey bulls of W. O. Douglas and son, Hanover, continuing their blue ribbon run, both winning their class against three other exhibitors.

Guernsey Bull Wins.

The competition at Richland Center was centered mainly on Guernseys and Jerseys. The age bull of Dr. W. A. Munn was a winner against three others and also their stock of the Janesville surgeon and that of Otto Hanson, W. J. Douglas, Ralph Pratt and Alie Knudsen were first in their classes. The only class lost on Guernseys was in the junior calf division.

On Holsteins there was a surprise when the judges put the age cow of J. A. Craig, Julia Blackwood, first over Maxine Ormsby, owned by J. W. Jones, grand champion at Fond du Lac.

The stock of John Goldthorpe, Funk Brothers, Ward Brothers, the Rock county farm, and J. A. Craig were winners of the blue. There is no division in the yearling, the juniors and seniors showing together. The senior yearling from the Rock county farm was first and lactating juniors, the champion female, with the Craig heifer second and the Rock county farm junior yearling third. The only top place won by Richland breeders was in the senior bull calf class.

In the sweepstakes group classes the Holstein herd of J. A. Craig won first, with the Munn Guernseys second. The senior and grand champion prize of honors were won on an Ayshire, Daisy Third, from the herd of William Nisbet and Son. The Ayshire bull shown by J. C. Shaber, Alta Crest Mainstay, was junior champion of the show. The set-of-sire honors were won on the Ayshires, with the Guernseys second and third, and Holsteins fourth, Ship Home Friday.

The swine were judged Thursday. The bulk of the Rock county herd stock will be shipped out of Richland Center Friday night, and will arrive in Janesville, Sunday, to be dispersed.

Fifteen head are to be taken to La Crosse to be shown there, and then shipped to the Dairy Congress at Waterloo, Iowa. This carload will include the age Holstein bull, the senior yearling heifer from the Rock county farm, the twin heifers from the herd of Funk Brothers, the two Jersey bulls owned by W. O. Douglas and son, the age Guernsey bull from the Munn herd and a few heifers.

The condition of the stock is sound and all animals are in good flesh. Breeders who consigned stock to the show herds are urged to be ready to receive their stock Sunday. Two of the 11 herdsmen will go to La Crosse with the one carload of cattle, and J. C. Nisbet, manager, will have charge of the shipment; home, with the other caretakers.

Thrift Plan for

Parochial School

St. Mary's school children will follow this year the same thrift system that has been used in the public schools for the past two years. It is supervised through a local bank by a national organization, Thrift Inc.

This was decided at a meeting of St. Mary's Parent-Teachers' association at the hall at 3:45 p. m. Wednesday when various other matters were discussed. Mrs. Harry Olson, vice president, was in charge.

The ways and means committee, chaired by Mrs. Glen Snyder for September, reported on a number of ways for raising money, and all were adopted. One is a card party to be held soon, in charge of Mrs. Alice Buck and Mrs. A. C. Benkert. Children of the school, next Monday and Tuesday, will take to the school all magazines and papers which will be sold and the money added to the fund.

A membership drive will be held soon, with Mrs. George J. Sennett in charge. Sister Thomas of the faculty gave a brief outline of her summer plans for raising money, and the program and refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Webber, Sr., and Mrs. H. L. Coyne.

The next meeting will be held the first Wednesday in October. Attendance at the meeting Wednesday was exceptionally good.

STOP CHOLERA OUTBREAK. Apparently the outbreak of hog cholera near Milton has been successfully checked. No further losses have been suffered by the farmers. Only a limited number of herds showed infection.

"This is the Cookie the Kiddies Like"

MANY a youngster reminds Mother to bring home Kup Kustards when she goes shopping. They like the rich, buttery, custard creme filling and the plain vanilla flavored cookies on either side. Between meals or with fruit sauce or ice cream Kup Kustard is their favorite. Be sure to ask your grocer for Johnston's Kup Kustard cookies.

You can always recognize these cookie sandwiches by their clever design. On top and bottom each cookie resembles a pan of little biscuits fresh from the oven.

Remember "Sulphur and Molasses?"

IN the good old days you were fed this at Spring-time. Mother knew the value of sulphur as a regulative power. Science finds its presence necessary in the daily diet.

Sulphur enters into the proper functions of body organs and is important to digestion. HOLSUM bread contains not only some of the sulphur needed but also the vital phosphorus, calcium and iron, as well as other mineral salts that bring health and protection.

All breads are not alike. HOLSUM is scientifically blended to complete the balanced diet. It helps supply the sources of growth, energy and immunity. Beyond this, it is a loaf of exquisite flavor—tasty, tempting, delicious.

Serve Apricot Pudding tonight.

Apricot Pudding
Butter a mould generously, sprinkle bottom and sides with chopped almonds. Cut two slices of HOLSUM (lengthwise of loaf three-fourth inch thick to exactly fit the mould). Beat the yolks of three eggs lightly, add one-half cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of vanilla and one cup of milk. Soak bread in the mixture and fit one piece in the mould. Cover with halves of canned or cooked dried fruit. Fit in the other piece of bread, and pour over the remaining custard. Put the mould in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Allow to stand ten minutes before removing from the mould. Garnish with halves of apricots filled with whipped cream.

Two months ago I determined to give Peterson's Ointment a trial. The improvement was so decided after using one box, that I have continued, and on the completion of the fifth box am now entirely cured.

This is written with the view of passing along the good word to other sufferers. Very truly yours, Chas. E. Caswell, 282 Third Street, Albany, N. Y.

Here's another from Mr. Edgar Thomas, age 76, of Hemlock, N. Y. He writes:

"I had the itching piles, also high blood pressure. I saw Peterson's ad in the paper. I used one box and a half of Peterson's Ointment for itching piles and the piles disappeared. The high blood pressure, too, went a box at all druggists."

PERSHING IS 63, THURSDAY

Washington.—John J. Pershing celebrated today his 63rd birthday. He began his last year of active service in the army, to which his life has been devoted, at his desk in the war department, performing the triple duties of acting secretary of war, general of the army and chief of staff.

A year from today, which also is the anniversary of the opening of the battle of St. Michel, the man who commanded the American army to then in its first great drive against the German lines in France, will be retired.

Men's Net Meet Will Be Started Here Next Week

With the idea of boosting tennis in Janesville, the 1929 men's city single tennis tournament will be held on all available courts of the city next week. Invitations were sent out Wednesday by Sam McKel, Donald Bolles and Chad Newman, who took the initiative.

It is strictly an amateur affair. All professionals are barred. The only outstanding stars in Janesville to compete, it is expected the tournament will give all entering an equal chance. Offered as prizes is a beautifully engraved silver loving cup for the winner and a medal for the runner-up.

To cover expenses, entry fee is $1. Entries may be made with any of the three boys on or before the closing time, Saturday night.

Senator Brookhart, the Winneshiek Bottoms and Swamp Farms.
Flippantly answering the flippant suit of Mr. Meredith who asks 20 cents damages for libel from him, the senator from Iowa says he will not have the 20 cents left after paying his taxes on his farm. He wants to carry the message that he has not been able to make money on his farm and therefore all other farmers are in his fix. This, as will be presently seen, depends on several things. In the first place the senator has a farm in bottom land which is a part of a drainage project and the lands were sold with the ditch cost added in part. Prices of land were high—much higher than some other lands can be bought in Iowa, and in spite of the notion which many people have that swamp land should be very rich, is not exceedingly productive. On this property this senator has a mortgage of $20,000 to secure a loan at a Federal land bank. Naturally he has a large interest account. Then there are special assessments or payments to make on the drainage project.

These may be said to constitute extenuating circumstances in which the senator is justified in his statement that he cannot make money, but he should not be so sweeping as to include all others in his class.

We have drained many thousand acres of swamp land in Wisconsin with different results. Soils differ so greatly that no general rule can be applied so that fertility can be guaranteed after the water is taken off. Some soils are so light that when dried out the top blows away leaving a sand subsol which would be barren anywhere. This has happened regularly in the drained Everglades of Florida. The dried up top soil of decayed vegetation was so light that winds moved it off and left the purchaser with a sand dune as useless as the tide-washed sea beach for growing crops. Here in Wisconsin we find need for lime and other regulators at a great expense, to make the soil productive after drainage.

Which brings us to the proposal for draining that great lowland known as the Winneshiek along the Mississippi in Crawford county. Here the senator has made a home for the wild birds and a spawning place for fish second to none in the United States. Into this place the vandal hand of the speculator is about to be thrust. There is only a gamble when it is done and the swamp is drained and people buy the lands in the hope of a great productive farm perhaps to be disappointed and become as misanthropic as the senator from Iowa with his farm on the Keokuk bottoms. We will eventually like China and other nations where immediate greed of mankind destroyed forests and breeding places of game and fish only to face annual starvation if crops failed. We ought to save the Winneshiek if only to protect the innocent purchasers of swamp land like Senator Brookhart from becoming discouraged and cynical over farming as a business.

Prince Edward of Wales will eat corned beef and cabbage at the Canadian ranch. He should certainly invite our old friend Jiggs to dinner.

It Begins to Look Better.
Peace in the Ruhr begins to appear possible. With Germany taking a sensible view and ending the passive resistance, opportunity for negotiations seem to be within the measure of diplomacy. News also comes that a loan of large proportions will be asked by Germany, a billion dollars in fact. Of this it is said the United States will be asked to supply 250 millions. If Germany will make such guarantees as naturally will be called for when a loan of that size is being negotiated, there will not be great difficulty in its arrangement. The world has been ready to render that assistance which was needed in bringing about stability and a permanent peace whenever Germany showed a spirit of acceptance of contracts made by her at the close of the war in good faith and that there was a desire to make reparation for the depredations and devastations of war brought on by her.

So long as there was a feeling that Germany, with her expedition into flat money speculation, was attempting to commit economic suicide to evade her obligations, other nations, notably the United States, would have no business with her in rendering such assistance as would place her financially on her feet.
France, in such a situation, must enter upon a series of negotiations with an open mind.
Germany has reached the end of her tether. Her people are being destroyed by a government which has apparently failed to understand that in tearing down its home structure to cheat its creditor, its own family was also being crushed and left prostrate. In such a time the United States will prove a great balance wheel in final adjustments.

We will have a number of conventions here next year. We might have many more had we hotel facilities. What Janesville needs is a modern hotel and it is about the proper time to start the movement once more.

COLDEST SPOT ON EARTH
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—That the coldest spot on earth is within the confines of the District of Columbia will be news to most people who have been accustomed to think that to reach the place of record low temperature involved a hazardous journey toward the North or South Pole, and who will be surprised to know that it can be visited without any trouble by persons wearing the lightest of summer attire.

This spot is located in the northwestern section of Washington. To be more exact, it is in a room in the Bureau of Standards, where Uncle Sam's scientists are constantly accomplishing new marvels. This means, of course, that the record low temperature is altogether an artificial one, and in this instance it is the result of the work of Prof. C. W. Kanolt, who has done something in this line that would make the best effort of old Boreas seem like a summer zephyr in comparison.
When the bromide question, "Is this cold enough for you?" is asked of the average individual, he usually replies in the affirmative when the mercury is skidding toward zero. When it gets well below zero a few degrees more do not seem to make a great deal of difference, but we begin to watch out for frostbitten noses and ears and we also begin to hear from the oldest inhabitant who "remembers" when.

At 33 degrees below zero we know the mercury freezes, because that was in the school books, but we also know that temperatures of from 40 to 60 below have been frequently observed in this country, the record being somewhere in the sky. We may learn that the very lowest natural temperature ever recorded in the world only touched 90 degrees below.

Man has frozen pure alcohol at 140 degrees below zero. Then he has liquefied oxygen at 297 and nitrogen at 319 below, and has frozen the latter at 347 and the former at 260 below.
Then he has taken hydrogen, that gaseous element which is tasteless, colorless and the lightest thing known to mankind and consequently much used in balloons, and he has liquefied it at a temperature of 423 below. And during the present summer, Prof. Kanolt has been freezing hydrogen at 433 and has created temperatures probably several degrees nearer the point known as absolute zero—459 below—which scientists have been endeavoring for years to reach.

Prof. Kanolt has achieved his marvel of low temperature while Washington has been sweltering. While some half million of his fellow residents have sweat and suffered, he has had at his command a little room in the government laboratory where, whenever he wanted it to be, it has been "cold enough to freeze the whiskers off a brass monkey."

It has been so cold here he works his magic that no thermometer you have ever seen can record the temperature. It has been so cold that if you were to thrust your arm into the place where the cold is it would freeze instantly, and it, on withdrawing your arm, would freeze to burn. It is against any solid object it would break into innumerable pieces so infinitesimal that you would never be able to tell what had been bone, flesh or blood.

The most hardened polar explorer could not endure such a temperature for a single minute. He would be frozen until he would be so brittle that he would disintegrate if struck a sharp blow with a hammer or any like instrument.

How it is possible to know anything about so extreme a temperature is the mystery which is solved by ordinary thermometers freezes at a point 400 degrees above the freezing point of hydrogen. The method of measurement is a gaseous thermometer, which is difficult to explain to the lay mind, but which scientists know to be inferring and accurate. You may be a little skeptical about the frozen hydrogen's being as cold as they say it is, but the physicists can prove their claims—if you are able to comprehend their proofs.

There is no industrial or commercial use for such a cold temperature, but it is useful in scientific investigations and that is the reason for Professor Kanolt's work. Also, the Bureau of Standards has undertaken the experiments for the purpose of studying the method in order to render its use by other laboratories easier.
"Hydrogen was first certainly liquefied by Sir James Dewar in England about twenty-five years ago," Professor Kanolt told an interviewer. "About two years afterward he succeeded in obtaining some of the liquid to a solid. Since that time liquid hydrogen has been produced in several laboratories, notably that of Professor Kamerlingh at Leyden."

"The importance of liquid hydrogen lies in its use for the production of extremely low temperatures and the study of properties of matter at these temperatures. Some of these properties are important in theoretical physics. The method has never been used industrially."

The scientific description of the method of liquefying hydrogen is as follows: The hydrogen is first compressed to a pressure of about 75 to 100 atmospheres, then recooled to a temperature of about 200 degrees centigrade, which is produced by the forced evaporation of liquid air under reduced pressure, and then passed through a heat exchanger, consisting of a close coil of copper tubing, and allowed to expand to atmospheric pressure through a valve. The gas is further cooled by the expansion and the coils are used to cool the incoming gas by passing it around the heat exchanger of copper tubing. This process reduces the temperature until part of the hydrogen liquefies.

Try to understand that! And then listen while the expert tells you that the principle is comparatively simple.

Then you will be prepared to be told that after the liquefaction process it is relatively easy to freeze the gas to a solid by placing it in a vacuum-walled container and evaporating it under reduced pressure produced by a rapidly acting vacuum pump. You may not comprehend, but if you have access to the Bureau of Standards you may at least see the apparatus used by Professor Kanolt. You will see a large tank with two indicators on the front to measure the pressure, and below the gauges are the switches which turn on an electric current. At the top is a black box containing the liquid hydrogen which is solidified—so you are told—in a short time after the scientist makes ready and turns on the switch.
But if you find it difficult to grasp any of these processes you may get a concrete idea of what liquid hydrogen is like when you are told that a cork will not float in it, for the density of cork is three or four times that of liquid hydrogen. One usually thinks of cork as a substance that will float in any liquid.

city, that persons familiar with the Cuban capital were appalled at the prospect of cleaning up Manila. But in the years of American occupation it has been cleaned, communicable disease reduced to the minimum and a general change for the better everywhere is noticed. In the Philippine efforts to secure independence the natives have apparently lost sight of all these benefits.

YOUTH.
With the lit of a song on his lips
And the glint of the sun in his eye,
Which seldom a frown will eclipse,
A roguish young fellow goes by.
You can tell by the tilt of his head,
By the charm of his voice and his tone,
By the grace and the spring of his tread,
That never a care has he known.

His shoulders are broad and full square,
His back is as straight as a pine,
The color's still fresh in his hair,
Which has long ago faded from mine.
Here is youth, clean and supple and strong;
Here is unburdened youth, passing by—
Oh, the years have been many and long
Since such a young fellow was I.

Yet time was I sang as does he,
And time was I laughed as he went;
Now age with its cares burdens me,
And the best of my courage is spent.

Brave boy, sing your songs while you may,
Too soon you shall look back as I,
When your temples are wearing the gray
And some roguish young fellow goes by.

R. B. CREAGER.
It is generally believed that R. B. Creager, Texas banker, will be appointed U. S. ambassador to Mexico in a few days. Creager was known to be the choice of the late President Harding for the post. President Coolidge recently held a long conference with Creager and since this talk Washington understands that the new choice is also Creager.

Creager, whose home is in Brownsville, Tex., was host to President Harding when the chief executive was in the city. The Texan lived in Mexico for years and is therefore well acquainted with conditions, customs and manners. He is also in accord with the president's views on the Mexican situation and in close touch with the administration. Creager is married and has a large family. He never has taken a prominent part in national politics, although he has been interested in Republican circles for many years.

Personal Health Service
By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

DON'T TAKE THE TRUTH SERIOUSLY
The favorite popular conceit at present is calling everything in the way of medicine or treatment that doesn't come in pill form a "serum." The narcotic drug scopolamin (the same drug that made the healing "twilight sleep" a few years ago) has the effect of producing loss of memory, rather a lapse or "loss of alertness," a state of indifference to the concerns of the world, and is administered to persons under suspicion, to see whether they would so far forget themselves and their assumed roles as to betray their guilt.
To call the drug "truth serum" is an inexcusable indulgence of the desire for sensationalism.

Serum is the liquid of blood minus the corpuscles or cells. Serum from the horse immunized against the poison of diphtheria is antitoxin serum or "antitoxin." Bacterins or "bacterial vaccines" are made from bacteria. So when we read about a new serum there is no telling what the new remedy may be, since so many are content to call everything but a pill a "serum."
Scopolamin is combined with morphine and administered by hypodermic injection to benumb consciousness in the method which has been so widely advertised for "twilight sleep." It is given by the way, which we were using in suitable cases in this country at least ten years before the idea was reimported from Germany. It is a sedative. An individual fully under the influence of these drugs is drowsy and slow to respond but not unconscious. He can remember for only a brief time what he is likely to forget. He starts out to say, even in replies of two or three words. With his memory thus inhibited or in abeyance he may, if plied with leading questions, tell all something he means to keep secret. In most instances the drug so benumbs consciousness that the subject's replies are mumbled and meaningless.

The action of scopolamin is similar to that of atropin (the active principle of belladonna); the drug has been much used by opiate for dilating the pupil and placing the eye in a condition for examination and in the treatment of iritis. Administered internally or hypodermically scopolamin more closely resembles another drug called hyosine (obtained from henbane) in its action on the brain.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Q.—I believe you should know of an experience of mine. When a boy of about 13 years I was convalescing from some illness and lay in bed with a pet cat napping on the foot of the bed. He was a big fellow, weighing 10 pounds or more. I called to him and he walked up to me and looked down into my face. I talked to him and he would not look at me. I trusted his head into my mouth. I got my arms out from under the bedclothes as quick as I could and grabbed that cat and he hit the wall over the foot of the bed with a dull, sickening bang. Enormous pain and I have never since been able to eat meat. I think it is a real danger. (S. T. B. C.)
A.—There is no accounting for some imaginations.
Q.—I have heard of some people eating raw oysters and getting sick. Is it advisable, or would you advise cooking? Is oatmeal easier to digest raw? (Mrs. E. B. C.)
A.—It is all right to eat oatmeal raw if you like it so, although most people prefer to cook it. It is a matter of taste whether to cook it only a few minutes or for an hour or two or let it simmer for several hours. It is perhaps better to cook it only a few minutes, 10 to 20 minutes, short cooking, never more. Into dextrin, the starch tends to undergo lactic fermentation, as people who drink buttermilk or the lactic fermented milk know. For young infants and persons of feeble digestive capacity perhaps more prolonged cooking is preferable. Raw oysters should be eaten at once. Raw oysters should eat it so, I think.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

REPLYING to the call of its readers for more sports news, the Gazette has instituted a big service several months ago. Two weeks ago, the demand having continued to grow, the sports department added to the holdings of the league and has been printing them daily along with the games won and lost of the major leagues. The fans have liked it and have expressed their thanks for the enlarged service. On Tuesday, one of the Chicago papers started doing the same thing, giving the fans the information of the league results. Moral: Read the Gazette to keep ahead of the game!

THE MAROONS and Indiana have the cream of the schedule of the Big Ten this year so far as a conference is concerned. Chicago plays all but one of its six conference games at home. The same is true of the Hoosiers. Wisconsin has but two Big Ten games at home, one at Madison and one at Milwaukee. That means that the fans had better get their tickets early in the season. The Chicago papers are direct your orders to Paul Hunter, athletic department.

STOUGHTON by installing horse-pitching courts on the same line that bowling has been held for years, is pointing the way to all cities of southern Wisconsin. The plan being outlined for the establishment of a winter league in this end of the state, it might pay there to follow along the same line. Horse-shoes are a growing sport. They are here to stay. The league plan is the best way of making the game one of permanent value. Janesville needs several indoor courts. They may be constructed with little outlay of money. Once a man takes to the game and starts learning how to turn the shoe in mid-air, he's a fan for good.

Start Seining Carp from Koshkonong Within Week

FISHERMEN ASKED TO MEET FRIDAY WITH COMMISSIONER

Commercial seining of carp from Lake Koshkonong will be started either on Sept. 17 or 24, it was announced by the office of the state conservation commission over the telephone to the Gazette Wednesday afternoon. The statement came from Commissioner Webster.

Fishermen that are ready to start the work will probably be permitted to set their nets on either date. It is not considered very likely, however, that any of the operators will be ready to work before the first part of October.

Fishermen to Meet Commissioner. Nothing has been done to allot sections to fishermen or to determine the method to be followed in allowing them to make their hauls. A meeting for this purpose, Commissioner Webster said, will be held in the office of the commission at Madison on Friday afternoon of this week. The conclusions arrived at will be made public.

Once the fishermen are permitted to start seining carp and other rough fish in the lake and river, there will be season closed to them. This was stated Wednesday by Commissioner Webster, who said that the method to be followed in allowing them to make their hauls. A meeting for this purpose, Commissioner Webster said, will be held in the office of the commission at Madison on Friday afternoon of this week. The conclusions arrived at will be made public.

Stated by Walton. "They will probably fish during the periods when there is a sale for the fish," Commissioner Hall said. "As a rule the heavy sale will be during the Jewish holidays."

There has been no limit of years on the opening of the lake and river for commercial seining. The issue of the opening of the lake and river for commercial seining. The issue of the opening of the lake and river for commercial seining. The issue of the opening of the lake and river for commercial seining.

The purpose was to make it possible to bring game fishing back. Walton officials say, for carp are believed to have killed the spawn and young of the lake.

The season may be closed at any time in the judgment of the commissioner. It was explained by Mr. Hall.

The commissioner remarked upon the commercial value of the fish and the revenue they will bring to the state. He remarked that the sale of carp will be constant and that it will be the tendency of the fishermen to pull out the merchantable fish only.

They must keep the water clean. "If the state law does not permit them to be put back in the waters," he said, "they must keep the water clean."

Twenty percent of gross proceeds from the sale of the fish will be payable to the state.

Favor Jack for Winner; Has a Cold

New (By Associated Press) Firpo woke up in New York Thursday within 20 minutes ride of the ring in the polo grounds where Friday night he will make an attempt to take from Jack Dempsey the heavyweight championship of the world. Dempsey was still in his cottage in Saratoga Springs where he finished his training Wednesday, but he will come to New York Thursday.

Dempsey will put up at the hotel Belmont for his one night in the city before the fight, while Firpo is staying with friends and trainers at an uptown apartment.

The ticket apportioning which Rickard estimates will be about $1,500,000 will be all over before the gates are opened Friday, if the promoter's guess is right.

Firpo and trainers of both men stated the battlers are in finest condition possible, although Dempsey made some remarks about the choice of his training camp site.

BIG FIGHT RETURNS. Returns of the Dempsey-Firpo fight will be megaphoned by the Gazette from the second floor windows Friday night. The fight starts at 8 p. m. Janesville time.

which were anything but complimentary. Also there were rumors of a cold in the champion's chest. However, the betting odds remain stationary.

Notables Will Attend. Fight fans from far places began pouring into the city and the hotel gradually filled with people whose talk was all of the big bout. South American diplomats and attaches from the Washington embassies drifted into town and started making preparations for the celebration they hope to be able to hold. While fans were chasing tickets, police were chasing ticket speculators who are driving the price of the fight up to as much as 125. Many are said to have changed hands at this price.

Notables of every degree and variety will be at the fight. Front the champion blind baggage rider of the world on the benches to the titled and decorated gentry at the ringside. There also will be a large number of club men in the arena.

The gathering will include many leaders in the business, financial and political world, who have come from Washington and from various industrial centers to witness the bout.

Edgerton Sees Hard Grid Year; Loses 10 Men

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton—Edgerton high school's first call for football candidates was answered by 25. Practice has begun with Coach Abernethy outlining the training rules of the season and the issuing of equipment. Many more candidates are expected to report before the week is over as some are still working in the tobacco fields.

Abernethy, formerly of Ripon, will be head coach and his two year's experience as assistant coach Edgerton should prove valuable for this year's team. He will be assisted by John Sellers, for the past three years tackle at Milliken college, where Rollie Williams, of Edgerton, is now director of athletics.

Back La Crosse Big. The schedule this year is the hardest Edgerton has ever faced as the Tobacco city meets two Madison teams and La Crosse, besides their team games with Janesville, Stoughton and Port Atkinson. Coach Abernethy will be further handicapped in filling the shoes of Whitford, Sverdrup, Jacob, Campbell and Swenson, who graduated. A further handicap came when announcement revealed the ineligibility of Olson, tackle. Bliven and Gesser, ends. Eardson, center, and Elsing, half back, all past letter men.

The spirit of Edgerton is not dampened, however. Larson, J. Whitford, center, and Gesser, end, are expected to make the team. The success of the team depends upon how the new men develop. Capt. Spike is perhaps the best high-school player in southern Wisconsin at the present time.

The schedule: Sept. 28—Milton Union at Edgerton. Oct. 6—Madison (Central) at Madison. Oct. 12—Stoughton at Edgerton. Oct. 20—Port Atkinson at Port Atkinson.

Oct. 27—Open. Nov. 8—Janesville at Edgerton. Nov. 10—Wisconsin High (Madison) at Edgerton. Nov. 17—La Crosse at La Crosse.
